

the budget, no matter how tight the administration and Congress control expenditures.

Second, that the country will, in the not too distant future, be struck by its fifth postwar recession, with a heavy loss of jobs and profits, a record-breaking budget deficit, and an increased burden of national debt.

Third, that unemployment and unused business capacity will remain at or above their present high levels, creating a lack of investor confidence at home, and a lack of confidence in the dollar abroad.

Fourth, that the pressure for a 35-hour week, for restrictions on imports and automation, and for large, "quickie" tax cuts, and sharply increased Federal spending, will all grow beyond manageable limits.

Fifth, that this Nation's rate of economic growth will not match over the next 10 years the record of most other industrial powers, or our own record in this country.

I am not gainsaying the fact that tax reforms are needed to distribute the Federal tax burden more equitably. I am saying, however, that we need an immediate tax cut that would bring immediate benefits to the largest number of people. Many of the President's tax reforms would bring about inequities and cause a decrease in purchasing power in the hands of the very people who should be receiving an increase in purchasing power.

Increasing the personal exemption, which is what Senator HARTKE's bill does, would achieve the result the President seeks although it may not follow the final Presidential prescription. It would release immediately $11.7 million in purchasing power. It would give an immediate boost to our economy by putting this purchasing power in the take-home pay of the taxpayers of the Nation in the very next paycheck after this amendment becomes effective. There will be no forms to fill out. There will be no long delays in obtaining rebate checks—those will come later.

I am not unaware, Mr. President, that, since the delivery of the President's tax message, the state of our economy, as measured by national indexes, has improved. But the serious pockets throughout the country do persist. They must be wiped out. We cannot be complacent while 5.6 percent of our total labor force is unemployed. We cannot tell the more than 4 million unemployed men and women that there is no need to get this country moving economically.

It was for this reason that on March 19, I, together with a number of my colleagues, introduced a bill, S. 1121, to increase the authorized amount for the accelerated public works program.

That is why today, I am joining the distinguished senior Senator from Indiana in cosponsoring his bill which will give the President the tax cut which he so rightly believes we need, but will give him the tax cut speedily and simply and in a manner which each taxpayer can understand readily without waiting to compute his income tax return next year.

DESIRES OF CATTLEMEN

Mr. SIMPSON. Mr. President, I call to the attention of the Senate four resolutions which, in my opinion, reflect the feelings and philosophy of the people of Wyoming. These well-prepared resolutions have been written by the Green River Valley Cattlemen's Association, of Pinedale, Wyo.

These resolutions, which deserve the attention of every person in Government—whether an elected official, a dedicated civil service employee, a political appointee, or one who is only in Government temporarily—are a tribute to the cattlemen of America.

These resolutions show that the cattleman is keenly aware of the Federal Government's ever-presence. The cattlemen want the Federal Government to return to a government of law and not men; to reduce expenditures and abolish all needless spending; to halt attempts to influence the public on highly controversial programs which are advocated by the administration; and to adopt a responsible fencing program.

Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to have printed at this point in the RECORD, resolutions adopted by the Green River Valley Cattlemen's Association on May 11, 1963.

There being no objection, the resolutions were ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

GREEN RIVER VALLEY CATTLEMEN'S ASSOCIATION RESOLUTION ADOPTED MAY 11, 1963, PINEDALE, WYO.

Whereas the administrative and executive department of the Federal Government exercises dictatorial powers over the people of the United States and can change rules and regulations over the voice of our duly elected Representative in Congress through the use of the Federal Register: Therefore be it

Resolved, That we, as members of the Green River Valley Cattlemen's Association, expend every effort and use every available means to assist all other groups that are endeavoring to return to rule by legislation in lieu of rule by Executive order and that we urge our State legislature and our U.S. Congressman and Senators to do everything possible to return to the government of statute and laws.
